New Mexico Secretary of State Toulouse Oliver Statement Following U.S. Senate Hearing on Russian Interference in 2016 U.S. Elections

SANTA FE – New Mexico Secretary of State Maggie Toulouse Oliver released the following statement today after the U.S. Senate Committee on Intelligence hearing on Russian interference in the 2016 U.S. Elections:

“Our office has not been alerted by any federal authority that New Mexico was a victim of any alleged breaches by Russia during the 2016 election cycle. I consider election security a high priority, and I’ll continue to work with federal agencies and other states to collaborate on best security practices and my office will continue to engage in regular security scans and testing.”
